

Global Health Outreach Pastor's Conference
“Enhancing Cross-cultural Disciple Making”
October 30, 2010

Summary Quotes:

- “ I learned how to best prepare to share in a cross cultural setting with primary oral learners. These are the same principles I need to apply to my own congregation here in the US.”
- Most participant evaluation rated the conference as “very useful” for better communicating in their local setting as well as preparing to minister cross culturally.
 - “Some of this was eye opening and can be applied to any ministry in our own country as well as rest of the world” Senior Pastor of 40+ years
 - “There is a lot to digest and think through” Pastor 44 years
 - “Not only for missions but in local cross cultural communication (generational/ethnic/education level) importance of knowing your audience, listen to them and understand the difference between individual and group orientation” Director of ministry for 20 yrs
 - “ I was humbled and it was eye opening, hungry for more... thank you!” Executive Assistant of Africa based ministry
 - “Caused me to question, challenge myself on how I prepare when I go (overseas)”. “ I want to be more effective in carrying the Gospel, so more preparation is important in what God has called me to do.” Missions teacher of 15 years
 - “Good reminders on basic principles that are easy to forget/ ignore to our peril” Senior Pastor of 19 years